

O. F. PIPER GETS SENTENCE OF TWO AND ONE-HALF YEARS TO PEN WITH $600 FINE

CALLER BEFORE JUDGE TAYLOR AT 1:30 O'CLOCK

Attorneys Make Pleas in Behalf of the Former Cashier of the Peoples Bank of California, Something Very Unusual.

At about 1:30 o'clock this afternoon, O. F. Piper, of California, the former cashier of the People's National Bank at that place appeared before Judge Taylor at Washington for sentence to the charges of conspiracy to defraud, and embezzlement of the funds of the bank, to which he pleaded guilty last year. He was given a sentence of two years on the charge of conspiracy and 6 months on the charge of embezzlement. This together with a fine of $600 and costs on him, makes the sentence rather stringent. Pleas for leniency were made by the attorneys for the defendant, O. C. Underwood and A. M. Templeton, of Washington and John C. Banc of Pittsburgh, and even the District Attorney C. L. V. Acheson joined them in this. Doubtless had it not been for the strong pleas, Piper would have received a much worse sentence.

Last year Piper appeared before the court and pleaded guilty to the charges against him, but sentence was delayed, partially for the reason that he would be needed to testify at the trial of W. L. Lenhart. His time to come before the court was set for this morning, after Lenhart had been sentenced.

All the above named attorneys expressed great sympathy for Piper, and the trend of their remarks, when they spoke in behalf of the defendant were that he had already suffered more than a man's allotment, and that he was thoroughly repentant.

Piper received his sentence much as if he expected it, and it did not seem to affect him much. He has become bowed somewhat over his troubles, and there was much sympathy among the people in the court room for his condition, and many were rather sorry to hear of his receiving the comparatively heavy sentence.

Piper will be taken to the Western Penitentiary at once so that he may begin the serving of his sentence. He will have six months and a few hours more to serve than Lenhart, who was connected with the failure of the same bank.

Mr. Piper's wife was present during the trial of Lenhart and up until her husband received his sentence. She is said to have taken it very hard.

Likely That Charleroi Will Have Pa. W. Va. League Team

REWARD OF $100 HAS BEEN OFFERED

Mystery in Disappearance of Zollarsville Man Deepens.

One hundred dollars reward has been offered by Joseph Swihart and his friends for information leading to the recovery of the body of his son, William Swihart, a Zollarsville blacksmith, who disappeared last Tuesday night.

Parquale Soguban, a saloonkeeper, who is in the Washington county jail for selling liquor to Swihart on the night he disappeared, said John Simpson, a coal and iron policeman of Pittsburgh of the Pittsburgh and Buffalo company, was with Swihart and drank with him. Simpson appeared early next morning at the livery stable of Swihart and Gregg and turned over $2.50 to a brother of the missing man. He said he had met Swihart in an intoxicated condition late Tuesday night and after taking the money for safe keeping put the blacksmith into a negro's shanty to sober up.

A negro said Swihart left the shanty before 2 o'clock Wednesday morning with a cap the negro gave him and without an overcoat. The negro said he later found Swihart's hat and overcoat outside the shanty and took them to the livery stable. The negro's cap was found the next day on the bank of Ten-Mile Creek. It is said Swihart had $40 on the night of his disappearance.

A message was received yesterday from Pittsburgh that a man had been found, that in some way fitted the description of the missing man. Today a brother of Swihart, James, went to Pittsburgh, and returned on the noon train to Zollarsville, the body not being that of his brother.

The case grows deeper in mystery as the days pass. The theory that he was drowned in the creek has been given up, and it is now thought that he was murdered. This was not at first believed, but the latest developments, as stated above rather point to that conclusion. It is thought that the $100 reward that has been offered by the man's friends will be sufficient incentive to get the officers to do their best and it is hoped that some news will be learned in the next few days.

It is now thought possible that the man may have fallen through a shaft at an old mine not far from his home, and this clue will be investigated.

Common Pleas Begins Today

Today the February term of common pleas court opened. There are several important cases to come up this week. Today there are two from Charleroi scheduled, B. A. Zollner vs. J. H. Moffitt, and M. E. Reeves vs. Frank W. Jones.

PROSPECTS ARE BRIGHT

Although it has generally been considered that baseball was dead in Charleroi, and that this place would not be represented in any league this year, it is likely that the game will be resurrected, and that after all has been said will have a team in the Pennsylvania and West Virginia league. At present a petition is being circulated by a committee in the interest of the team, and if enough signers can be secured, the franchise will again be secured for this town. As is well known the only thing that influenced the directors of the local club to even as much as think of relinquishing the franchise was the fact of the large indebtedness. This the committee and the signers expect to clear up through the aid of a home week and some benefits. The sale of the automobile tickets will be revived. It is thought and other special features introduced that will aid in the paying off of the amount.

If the proposition is a go, the old players, or the most of them will be reserved, and a few additional ones secured. In this way it is planned to have one of the best teams in the league, and if Charleroi enters this year it will make them all hustle for the first position. Last year the local club finished third. The town will support a winning team, and if there is baseball here another year, to say the least it is not thought that it will be a losing proposition. Many have already signed the petition that is being circulated, among them being one of the best citizens of the town. The people are in favor of baseball, and are willing to make some sacrifice to secure a team.

If there can be secured enough signers, a meeting will be called of the enthusiasts, at which time directors will be elected, and a manager appointed and players secured. Further arrangements would then be made to place the team in the league.

LENHART TAKEN TO PENITENTIARY THIS MORNING

To Begin the Serving of His Sentence at Once.

BROKE DOWN AND CRIED

William Lenhart, of Brownsville this morning began to serve his sentence of two years in the Western Penitentiary, imposed together with a fine of $500 on him, on Saturday afternoon, shortly after three o'clock, by Judge Taylor, following the finding of the verdict of "guilty" of the jury. It was thought for a time that an appeal would be taken to a higher court, but after a conference yesterday this was deemed inadvisable, for the reason that it would take a year or more for the case to be taken up, and by that time Lenhart will have served a large part of his sentence. The charge against him was conspiracy, in connection with the failure of the People's National bank at California.

The convicted man bade farewell to his wife yesterday afternoon, in the county jail, and the latter returned to her home in Brownsville. Both Lenhart and his wife broke down and the latter had to be assisted from the jail. Lenhart fully realizes his position and yesterday morning, when he was dressing, and from an injury to one of his arms some time ago, in which the use of it was nearly lost, found himself in great difficulty, whereupon he broke down and cried like a child.

The case was given into the hands of the jury a few minutes before 3 o'clock after Judge Taylor had charged them.

The jury was unanimous for conviction and on the first ballot stood 12 for conviction. The defendant was not in the court room when the jury came in, but with his father came in from the Trust building accompanied by his attorneys a few minutes later.

The defendant had arisen before the court when the verdict was read and was perfectly composed. Immediately afterward, R. W. Irwin, attorney for the defendant asked that sentence be suspended until today in order that an appeal might be taken to a higher court. Judge Taylor refused. District Attorney Acheson at once asked for judgment. Judge Taylor then sentenced Lenhart to two years in the penitentiary and a fine of $500. He was then ordered into the custody of the sheriff, Deputy W. C. McBride taking him to the jail.

Lenhart shook hands with his father, the latter leaving the court room. It is said that the jury was not five minutes in arriving at their verdict. The result was of a surprise to many who followed the case from the beginning.

THIRD APPEARANCE OF MALE CHORUS

The Cornell Male Chorus, that well known musical organization of the valley will make its third appearance in Charleroi Tuesday night when a concert will be given at the Coyle theatre. The chorus appeared at the School hall last year under the auspices of the Ladies' Auxiliary of the Y. M. C. A. and it was voted by all who had the pleasure of hearing it that it was one of the finest musical organizations of Western Pennsylvania. All the singers are well trained. The soloist for the concert will be Mrs. Charles Farrow Kimball, of Pittsburgh, a noted soprano. She has never been heard in Charleroi and should prove quite a drawing card.

EFFECT ORGANIZATION OF VALLEY LEAGUE

The Monongahela Valley Baseball league effected its organization yesterday afternoon at a meeting in Belle Vernon. C. H. Truxall of Belle Vernon was elected president, and Harry Grabart of Monessen, secretary. J. C. Carroll of Fayette City, Frank Hall of Roscoe, and Grover Boyd, of Donora, were chosen the board of control, and President Truxall, Mike O'Brien of Fayette City and Neil Doherty of Roscoe, were delegated to frame the schedule. That instrument will call for 42 games, the season opening May 15 and closing September 18. Brownsville was not represented at yesterday's meeting and was dropped. Monessen was elected in its stead. Dunlevy and Homestead were voted franchises, making it an eight-club league.

All the clubs will play Saturdays, but two games being played each week, one of them abroad. The next meeting will take place March 14.

OFFICERS ARE ELECTED AT THE PRESS MEETING

An interesting meeting of the Monongahela Valley press association was held on Saturday afternoon and evening at Belle Vernon, when the scribes were the guests of the "Truxalls" of the Belle Vernon Enterprise. This was the annual meeting and the election of officers was held. R. K. Wiley of the Elizabeth Herald was elected president, Hon. C. L. Shuck, of the Monessen News, 1st vice-president; R. E. Koeler, of the Donora American, 2nd vice president; J. Mac Colvin, secretary; C. H. Truxall, treasurer.

There were sixteen present, and after the business session a royal good time was had. A nice supper was served at the Central Hotel.

One new member was admitted to the association, C. D. Steinman of the Fayette City Journal.

Criminal Suit Settled by the Agreement of Tax Payers

SUPERVISORS TO RESIGN

Both Fisher and Boyd Are Compelled to Quit Job and Pay Costs.

Washington, Pa., Feb. 22.—The criminal case of the Commonwealth against Jacob Fisher and Robert Boyd, the two supervisors of Carroll township, who were arrested and indicted for conspiracy and embezzlement of funds of the township, and which was set for this term of court, will not be tried.

The criminal case was a part of the proceedings on behalf of a large number of tax payers who appealed from the audit of Carroll township for the year 1907. The Court ordered a re-audit which was held during May and June of last year. At the re-audit, it developed that all of the vouchers and a large number of the time books and tax duplicates of the Township had disappeared and could not be produced. An item of $130 appeared on the original audit as having been paid out by Robert Scott, the third supervisor on road work. At the re-audit, Scott denied the receipt of this money and Jacob Fisher admitted that he had received it. Fisher and Boyd were arrested and indicted by the Grand Jury. The tax payers appealed from the re-audit and the same is still pending. The tax payers, through their attorneys, agreed that the criminal suit be settled, inasmuch as the entire controversy could be better investigated and cleared up through the civil suit still pending. Judge McIlvaine had ruled that Fisher was entitled to this $130. By the terms of the settlement, both Fisher and Boyd tender their resignation as supervisors and pay all costs and expenses, as well as returning the $130 to the township. As Fisher's term expires within the next two weeks, his resignation will not be acted upon. The Court will be asked to appoint a successor to Boyd.

The tax payers had retained attorneys McIlvaine and Williams of Washington and David M. McCloskey of Charleroi to assist the District Attorney, while the interests of Fisher and Boyd were looked after by McIlvaine, Vance and Gibson of Monongahela and Irwin and Wiley of Washington.

Cheaper Steel and Prosperity.

The cutting of steel prices $1 a ton
by the Carnegie Steel company—a step anticipated by the independent's and now likely to become general—is one of the most encouraging portents for returning prosperity that have been noted since the end of 1907. The action is wise, it was urwise that it was so long delayed.

A year ago it was pointed out that in no previous period of financial depression had powerful business organizations been in the position or in the temper to delay the return of prosperity by defying economic law. The lesson has possibly been learned that the attempt is foolish, but the tuition bills the whole community has had to pay have been heavy.

The natural cure for a panic is competitive cutting of prices, which stimulates purchases. "Bargains" appeal to business men as powerfully as they do to housewives. In some lines of production not too closely organized, prices were cut at once, and to that extent the situation was relieved; but the Steel Trust, Beef Trust, Flint Glass Trust and many others stood like Canute at the edge of these and bad tide recede, and the railroads had the incredible fellows to apply to slack traffic the "cure" of higher prices instead of lower dividends, or where necessary, the scaling down of nominal capital.

Well, most of the haughty Canutes have now stepped back or got their feet wet. Some of the railroads are cutting rates. The Steel Trust has not quite nullified the law of supply and demand. Not much is left of last year's defiance of economic law, except the uneasy feeling of the people that another potent reason has been added for regarding the unregulated control in few hands of vast industries as a public menace.

George Washington.

Ten days ago we were celebrating the 100 anniversary of the birth of Abraham Lincoln, today we celebrate the 17th anniversary of George Washington, the Father of this country.
Washington was the man for his place
the same as Lincoln was the man for his place. Neither could have filled the others shoes, with the success that each attained in his individual work. Washington was a warrior in the truest sense of the word, he was a patriot, and a man widely read, yet possessing all the gentleness that is attributed to women. His nobility of soul won for him, many of the honors that were his during his lifetime, and his strength in all emergencies was
the stability of the American colonists, when they had gained their freedom from oppressiveness of the mother country of England. Washington had a commanding figure, gracefulness to the extreme and one that would anywhere claim the attention. He was six feet three inches in height straight as an arrow. His figure when compared with that of Lincoln was a contrast yet there was some comparison between the two. Lincoln was tall, but he was ungainly, and not handsome, while Washington while tall, had a most graceful carriage, and was of prepossessing appearance.

Electric Sparks

Four of the Carmack jurors can neither read nor write, which moves
the Washington Herald to observe that they will be as good as any other in considering the "unwritten law."

The Washington Post is getting alarmed about the spread of the Prohibition wave, and exclaims with trepidation, "Even Niagara is going dry!"

The political principles of too many men consist in the lively anticipation of party favors and the desire to be placed on the government payroll.

Now that Japan has arranged to take a census, California stands ready to make up any shortage.

Governor Hadley, of Missouri, says wood. That and its accompanying virtue have a distinct advantage over a 90-mile horseback ride.

A good many California people who don't know what "segregation" means are demanding it because they think it is something anti-Japanese.

A little more Pacific coast war talk, and Mr. Roosevelt may come to regret that he turned down that second elective term business after all.

The government is advertising for
"3,000 Angora goats that can eat anything." Seems to be a scheme of Congress to get rid of Presidential measures.

The Congress that will convene immediately after Taft's inauguration is intended expressly for tariff business, but no doubt it will have other fish to fry.

Philander Knox used to work the old Washington hand press on the Brownsville Clipper, therefore, being a modest printer, he is not too proud to accept a reduction of salary to become secretary of state.

By the way, Brownsville has two secretaries of state who have stepped from the senate into the position. No city in the country, let alone little towns like Brownsville, can claim such a record.

The king of Spain, it seems, is the matchmaker who is trying to arrange a marriage between the king of Portugal and one of the princesses of England. The king of Spain's recommendations regarding English princesses ought to go. He has had experience with one of them.

Even if Congress should be discredited by Roosevelt, its members may still make good their constituents
by sending them spring garden seeds.

If the citizenship of Washington insists upon boosting up the price of cents it may be necessary to hold that inauguration in Baltimore.

No matter how hungry you may be,
you daren't catch fish except as a true sportsman. The markets are open to everybody.

In some parts of the country
apples are selling for fifty cents apiece. There are occasional famines in everything but poetry.

A DRUG STORE DEAL.

Involving an Actress, the Soda Water
Man and an Accident.

Josephine Coban, the actress, ordered a chocolate sundae, or some similar abomination, at a drug store uptown the other day. When she sat down to drink it, one of the long feathers on her hat touched a cigar lighter. Naturally they blazed up. The clerk, being a thoughtful young man, wrested the glass of ice cream soda away from Miss Coban and poured it on her hat, completely extinguishing the flames. Miss Coban, uttering unstudied exclamations as the congealed sweetness trickled down the back of her fair young neck, rose and did a few rough steps. Then she started to go away. "One minute, miss," said the clerk. "Haven't you forgotten something?"

Miss Coban said yes, she had forgotten a lot of things. She had forgotten the sense she was born with, for one thing, going into a place where they first set fire to her and then emptied a half portion of frozen garbage down her fingerie waist to suppress the fire demon. "You'd be a star at Coney, young man," was her decision. "I'm for you in the 'fighting the flames' cast any day."

But the clerk said he wanted a dime for the soda. Miss Coban peevishly inquired what soda he was talking about.
"I have had no soda here," said she. "You handed me one, and then before I got the connection with an arid palate established you tore it away to dump on my new hat."

But the clerk said he wanted a dime, just the same. Miss Coban said she'd pay a dime for a soda in that dump the day following her commitment to Matteawan. "Whenever you see me breathing in here and demanding a platter of your best fire extinguisher, blow the whistle," said she. "I'm off for the funny house."

But the clerk said he wanted a dime for that soda. He said it in such a nasty way that Miss Coban got real mad.

"My hat cost $50," said she, "and you've ruined it. Give me $49.99 change and let me go." And that's the way the matter stands.

Miss Coban walks blocks out of her way now to make a false start through the drug store door and then, as if suddenly recollecting, turns away with a scream of terror. The clerk goes behind the prescription counter and makes faces in a mirror.—New York Letter to Cincinnati Times-Star.

A Small but Welcome Act.

roads were as thoughtful as they should be, instead of throwing their newspapers down on the floor of the car after finishing with them they would wait until they saw a gang of section hands and then toss their papers to the workmen," said Mr. A.
R. Webb of St. Louis.

"These men, even if humble wage partners, are endowed with a desire to know what is doing in the world, and it is an act of the greatest kindness to help them to this source of pleasure and education. Some of our western dailies have taken up this cause and are printing short notices asking railway passengers to give their newspapers to the toilers along the road."

Big Writers.

London Tit-Bits has recently been publishing some facts about the stature of well known English authors. In one of its articles it says: "Of past giants in literature, in two senses of the term, we have Thackeray, who was six feet three inches in height. Coming to the present time, we have Sir Arthur Conan Doyle, who is six feet two inches high, but doesn't look it on account of his stalwart build. Then there is Cuthbert Lyne, who is six feet three inches in height, while Hesketh Priehard is even a shade taller. Kells Howard runs to six feet one and one-half inches in height, while his brother, R. S. Warren Bell, who at once ends and tops our list, is close to six feet five inches."

Off With the Old Love.

A prominent Chicago lawyer tells of an amusing incident which he witnessed subsequent to a certain breach of promise suit in which he had acted as the defendant's attorney. The two were standing talking when they were joined by a third man, a friend of the client and an acquaintance of the lawyer. The third man had been out of town for some little time.

"Hello, old man, what are you looking so blue about?" the newcomer demanded as they shook hands.

"Oh, I've had a little hard luck.
I've got to pay Miss Blank $5,000 on account of a breach of promise judgment," was the disconsolate reply.

"Say, I'm glad to hear that, old fellow," the friend exclaimed fervently, seizing the dejected one's hand and shaking it vigorously.

"Glad to hear it? I've got to pay that money, I tell you! What do you mean?" the other demanded in astonishment.

"Just that, my boy. It will be just about enough for us to set up housekeeping on," Miss Blank and I are to be married next month, you know."

The White Evening Waistcoat.

Anything that breaks through the gloomy, funereal, waterwat aspect of male evening dress is to be commen-ed. But practically, as a general rule, the white evening waistcoat cannot be effectively worn much after the age of twenty-one. Black, it is well known, diminishes the proportions, but white undoubtedly increases them. I see men whom I have hitherto considered to be slim appear in white evening waistcoats and look absolutely corpulent.
—London Graphic.

ONE SAT STILL.

Captain Cook's Walking Stick With Thunder and Lightning.

When Captain Cook's ship, the Endeavor, lay in Mercury bay, New Zealand, in 1769, a brown boy of eight,
who afterward became a chief and
lived to a great age, went aboard of
her. His name was Taniwha.
It was easy enough for the brown boys to pick out Kapene Kuku (Captain Cook) among the men on board.
Taniwha said; he was the leader of the "goblins," a very great man. He walked the ship grave and dignified. He held up a nail, a priceless treasure, and when Taniwha laughed, gave it to him.
Then the boys knew that he was good as well as great. They were shocked that a grownup Maori stole a piece of cannon.

"They paddled away," Taniwha continued. "The goblin went down into the hold of the ship, but soon came up with a walking stick in his hand and pointed it at the canoe. Thunder peal-ed and lightning flashed, but those in the canoe paddled on."

"Then they landed. Eight rose to leave the canoe, but the thief sat still with his dogskin mat and the goblin's garment under his feet. His companions called him, but he did not answer.
One of them shook him, and the thief
fell back into the hold of the canoe, and blood was seen on his clothing and
a hole in his back."

"Either" and "Neither."

There are two or three things about these two words that one should remember. In the first place, they should never be used in connection with more than two things—as: "It was either Tuesday or Wednesday," not "either Tuesday, Wednesday or Thursday;" "It was neither Tuesday nor Wednesday," not "neither Tuesday, Wednesday nor Thursday." Then, either should not be used in the sense of each, as "they walked on, one on either side of the road." It should be one on "each" side of the road. The third caution is about the pronunciation. Some persons insist that they should be pronounced "ither" and "ni-ther," with the "i" long. But this is more an affection perhaps than anything else.
The best authorities agree that the right pronunciation is "ether" and "ne-ther."—New York World.

"Pinched."

The humor of school and college examinations is perennial. One specimen was contributed by one of the high schools where a girl in the department of history was required to write a brief sketch of Queen Elizabeth. Her paper when turned in was found to contain the following sentence: "Elizabeth was so dishonest that she stole her soldiers' food." The teacher who conducted these examinations was puzzled to know just whence this particular information had permeated into the girl's mind. So, calling her up, she asked the question.
"Why," was the ready answer, "that's just what it says in the history."
The book was sent for and the passage examined. It was found to read:
"Elizabeth was so parsimonious that she pinched her soldiers' ration."— Bookman.

Different Opinions.

"I see a man intends to let a rattlesnake bite him and depend on prayer for a cure. I call that faith."
"I call it cruelty to animals unless somebody's going to pray for the snake after it's bitten such a fool as that!"
—Philadelphia Ledger.

Paved With Tombstones.

"Not the least noteworthy thing about the beautiful building," writes Dr. Sunderman from Margence to the Wochenschrift, referring to the cathedral of that place, "is the pavement.
This is made with stones on which there are Hebrew letters, which aroused our curiosity. Investigation showed that the stones at one time marked graves in the Jewish cemetery and had been taken thence when there was a scarcity of building material and used to pave the cathedral. They have remained there ever since, and some of the inscriptions are still in a fair state
of preservation."

Priscilla at Her Knitting.

John Alden pinched Priscilla's cloth.
Though this was not his stocking.
Priscilla dropped it, and he took it to his good old homespun stocking.
And how the poets folk did stare,
And, oh, the verbal knockings
To see pinched Priscilla wear A pair of drop-stitch stockings.
—Boston Tribune.

Weddings and Broken Teeth.

"After every big east side wedding the dentist is of the quarter reap a harvest," said a dental surgeon. "It is the broken teeth that keep us busy. I do not mean that the guests raise a row and knock out one another's teeth.
Oh, no; it's the wedding cake that does the mischief. Over here bakers mix into wedding cakes every kind of a charm from coins and tiny china dolls to plain tin tags. In the course of the festivities many a luckless guest is bound to crack a tooth on that indigestible part of the wedding feast. At various times the wedding cake victims have talked of getting up a petition imploring the bakers to omit all gritty ingredients, but up to date the snapping of teeth goes merrily on."

A TALE OF PORTO RICO

Curious Story of the Haunted Sentry Box.

LIGHT ON THE OLD LEGEND.

One of the Many Mysterious Disappearances From Fort San Cristobal Accounted For by the Revelation of the Lost One Himself.

Writing in the Journal of the Military Service Institution, Captain Arthur P. S. Hyde of the coast artillery tells this curious story of "the haunted sentry box" of Fort San Cristobal, the ancient Spanish built fortress which guards the entrance to San Juan, Porto Rico:

"A number of picturesque sentry boxes built of masonry and appearing like minarets are placed at points of vantage in and around the fort. One of these on the sea front, and reached only through a long and dark tunnel from the interior of the fort, is popularly known as La Garita del Diablo, or the devil's sentry box, usually, although incorrectly, translated the haunted sentry box. This name was given to it by the Spanish soldiers for the reason that a number of sentries stationed there disappeared in a most mysterious manner and were never again heard from.

"An American officer was once on duty that took him into the remote interior of the island, and while spending one night in a small settlement he engaged in conversation with a number of the inhabitants of the place. One old man, on learning that the officer was stationed at Fort San Cristobal, became especially interested and in the course of the conversation told the following story:

"I used to be a soldier in the Spanish army and was stationed at Fort San Cristobal. A number of soldiers while on sentry duty had mysteriously disappeared from the sentry box down by the sea, and we had all become convinced that it was haunted by the devil, who, we thought, used to come and steal the soldiers away.

"One stormy night I fell to my lot to go on duty in the devil's sentry box, as we called it, at midnight, and it was with some doubts and misgivings that I went with the corporal of the guard and relieved the former sentry. When they left me I listened to the sound of their footfalls reverberating from the walls and ceiling of the dark and narrow passage, ever growing fainter and fainter as they receded, until finally the noise of the storm and the sea completely drowned it, and I was left alone with the mad elements.

"It was a mad night and one well calculated to add to the feeling of awe that the devil's sentry box always instilled into the man on duty there at night.

"Presently my attention was attracted by some lights in a small tavern on the shore below the fort, where many of us were wont to go when off duty for a glass of rum. Then I began to think that I might be able to climb down over the rocks to the shore, get a glass of rum at the tavern and return to my post.

"The more I thought of it the more determined I was to go, so finally, leaving my rifle and belt in the sentry box, I climbed over the wall and down on to the rocks and so made my way with great labor and difficulty and no little danger to the little house, where the occupants were making merry with dancing and drinking. I soon fell to and enjoyed myself with them.

"When one is dancing with a fair senorita he sometimes forgets the passage of time, as I did on that fatal night, and not until long after 1 o'clock did I begin to think of returning to my post. Then, realizing that the corporal had made his inspection and had found me gone from my post and with my rifle and belt left behind, I saw only a court martial and the garrote staring me in the face, for in those days for a sentinel in the Spanish army to quit his post meant sure death, even in peace.

"To go back was out of the question. There was only one thing left for me to do, and that was to desert. My heart sank within me. If I should be captured, the same fate would be meted out to me; but, I reasoned, if I were to go back the fate would be a certainty, whereas if I deserted at least I had a chance of keeping out of sight of the authorities. I deserted and before morning was out of the city and on the way to the mountains.

"I have lived in this little hamlet for years and have never been back to the capital since that day, nor have I ever told my story to a single soul until tonight, but now that the Spaniards are gone I no longer fear for my life.

"Thus we have the story of the devil's sentry box from one of the very men who so mysteriously disappeared from it, and it would seem to be probable that the other disappearances could be accounted for in a similar manner were the truth known. Quiet, eh?"

Captain Hyde mentions an interesting fact that, although for centuries Porto Rico was considered the legitimate prey of freebooters and was attacked at various times by regularly organized expeditions of the English and the Dutch during times of war, with more or less success, Fort El Morro has never been captured by an enemy, and its only surrender was to the Americans, together with the surrender of the whole island.

Gravity is only the bark of wisdom, but it preserves it.—Confucius.

WARNED BY SPECTERS

One Person's Three Experiences With Ghosts.

THE SPIRIT OF HIS SISTER.

How an Apparition From the Unseen World Aided the Brother in Deciding an Important Legal Question—The Phantom on the Grave.

Three times in my life, each instance separated by an interval of years, have the experiences here told been mine.

I come of a family to different members of which have become visible at times those appearances which for want of a better name are known as "ghosts." It is at least possible that the superstition regarding the second sight of one born with a veil may have some foundation in scientific fact, for my uncle was thus veiled at birth, and all his life from infancy vacant space was peopled to him with forms, which he would describe so accurately in dress, appearance and manner that listeners would instantly recognize departed friends, gone over years before my uncle's birth in many instances.

It was not till he was a large boy that he realized that the forms seen by him were not visible to others. Pages could be written of his experiences, but I am not here to give hearsay evidence, but my own personal experiences, the sights seen with my own bodily vision.

The first instance was so early in my life that I do not recall it, but my mother relates the circumstances.

Our home was in Brooklyn, and we had gone for the summer to Greenfield Hill, Conn. I was so young that I still wore dresses and was in charge of a nursemaid who was in the habit of receiving visits from Annie, a girl of her own class, so that I was well acquainted with Annie.

She died suddenly and was buried in the country churchyard, but I was not told of her death, being considered too young to understand.

As I walked with my nurse past the cemetery one evening in the edge of dusk her superstitious horror can be imagined when I cried, pointing directly to Annie's grave: "Oh, Maggie, there is Annie! She is waving her hand for us to come over to her!" I broke away from my nurse and ran to the cemetery fence. She caught me up and ran in a panic to the house, nor would she ever again pass the cemetery after dark.

The only idea in my mind was that of a familiar friend whom I had not seen for some time.

The second instance was at the most anomalous age possible to a boy—about thirteen. I was attending boarding school in Dedham, Mass.

A school friend, a boy of about my age, had left the school some days before for his home in the west, leaving in perfect health.

At about 9 in the evening I sat on the edge of the bed removing my shoes when the wall of the room seemed to part and open, showing the night outside, with the dim forms of the trees gently waving in the wind. As I sat spellbound at this strange sight in the rift of the wall against the background of the night stood my friend as I had last seen him, just as in life. He waved his hand to me in token of farewell, stood looking at me a moment, and gently the vision faded.

I said to my roommate, who had seen nothing: "Charlie is dead. I have just seen him." The next morning a telegram from the school said that he had died the night preceding.

In the third instance I had grown to manhood—a normal, healthy man, over six feet tall and weighing nearly 200 pounds. I am a civil engineer, the hardy outdoor life being far removed from dreams and morbid imaginings.

It was on one occasion necessary for me to consult a lawyer, and one evening I met the lawyer in his Boston office to talk over a matter of business. In the course of the conversation he asked me a question which I was undecided about answering. I stopped a moment before replying, for consideration, lowering my eyes, and, when I raised them, there stood behind the attorney a favorite sister, dead many years.

Her eyes were fixed on mine, her fingers on her lips. I instantly absorbed the idea conveyed by her suggestive pose and did not give the lawyer the information he asked. As it afterward proved, it was as greatly to my interest not to do so.

The lawyer shivered slightly as the vision stood behind his chair and said that there was a draft through the room.

He never knew that the sensation of cold conveyed to his nervous system was a breath from an unseen world.

Science has proved that light, sound and color are all the results of vibrations of greater or less rapidity. Some of these vibrations affect our senses and we see, hear or feel their effects. But what of the vast space filled with those vibrations which affect none of our senses, yet are unknown to science? Could our senses respond to them what secrets of the unseen might not be revealed, and who can say but the secret of these strange sights which sometimes greet the eye of mortals is hidden in this unknown range of vibrations, hiding a world that is all about us, mingling with and overlapping, surrounding and telescoping our common humdrum daily life and only in rare moments of attunement drawing the veil aside for a glimpse into the unknown.—New York Herald.

Steps in Cold Storage.

There is an apartment house in New York which has what is known as cold storage. In each apartment there is a kitchen which is supplied with a refrigerator. Inside the refrigerator it is always ice cold, says the New York Sun. A coil of pipes is covered with perpetual frost. The owner of one of these apartments opens the refrigerator door on a very hot night and sets an electric fan in front of it. In a short time the air of the whole apartment is cooled.

This is a new recipe and very nice. One-half cupful of Indian meal, one and one-half cupfuls of graham flour, one cupful of rye meal, one cupful of sour milk, one cupful of molasses, one cupful of water, one teaspoonful of soda dissolved in sour milk and one teaspoonful of salt.

Rather Clever.

Something more than quiet humor is in this paragraph, printed at the end of the Edmonton Opera House regulations by Manager Brandon: "Any old ladies afraid of taking cold may keep on their hats or bonnets."--San Francisco Argonaut.

THE PERSONAL EQUATION.

It Plays a Very Large Part in Success in Business.

If you stop for a moment to analyze success in business you will see, it comes through contact with people. It is all hinged upon the manner of your contact. On every side you are surrounded by a multitude of persons, in every one of whom there exists a potential force that may be exerted, at one time or another, to add to your success. The oftener you cause that force to be exerted the faster your business will grow. You can attract these individual forces if you choose and get the most from them or you can repel them and suffer actual damage from having come in contact with them, or you may take a middle course, as many business men do, and drift along in a purely negative manner.

Looking at business in this light, it is apparent that the underlying element which contributes most to the success of any undertaking and to business in the aggregate is the art of finding the vital points of human contact that will set in motion these forces. The personal element must be stamped upon your business.--Edward Payson Hatch in System.

Artemus Ward's Accomplishment.

On the occasion of Artemus Ward's professional visit to London, which occurred not long before his death, J. E. Preston Muddock says in his book, "Pages From an Adventurous Life," that the American humorist's advertisements of his "show" were as full of funny surprises as the lectures themselves. One that tickled the general public was this:

Artemus Ward delivered lectures before all the Crowned Heads of Europe ever thought of delivering lectures. And an excerpt from his lecture on "Drawing" is quoted by Mr. Muddock as a particularly delightful bit.

"I haven't distinguished myself as an artist," Ward said in his inimitable way, "but have always been mixed up in art. I have an uncle who takes photographs in his spare moments, and I have a servant who takes everything he can lay his hands on at any moment."

"At a very tender age I could draw on wood. When a mere child I once drew a small cart load of raw turnips over a wooden bridge. It was a raw morning. The people of the village recognized me. They said it was a raw turnip drawing. That shows how faithfully I had copied nature. I drew their attention to it, so you see there was a lot of drawing in it.

"The villagers, with the wonderful discernment peculiar to villagers, said I had a future before me. As I was walking backward when I made my drawing, I replied that I thought my future must be behind me."

The Greatest Man.

Who is the greatest man who has ever lived? The question went round a dinner table, and controversy raged from the fish onward. There were two who pumped for Julius Caesar, two more for Napoleon, one, thinking of statues, said Shakespeare, and some body else, who did not get a hearing at all, murmured Buddha at intervals, while most of the people present who did not know Greek said Aeschylus. But Aristotle won easily. It was not a particularly scholarly assemblage, and one wondered rather how many of Aristotle's enthusiastic devotees could have quoted accurately from him--had ever read him, indeed--since they left college. And all the while probably the greatest man of all ages is pegging away among us unnoticed, unrecognized, while we snapshot and interview all the little men or go back to some one who has been dead long enough for us to find out that we may safely praise him.--London Chronicle.

The Number Fourteen in France.

So far as France is concerned, it is the number fourteen that has played a conspicuous and generally portentous part in her history. On May 14, 1574 the l'ite de la Peronnee was enlarged by order of Henri II., and four times fourteen years later Henri IV. was assassinated there by Ravallier--namely, on May 14, 1610. Henri had lived four times fourteen to his fourteen weeks and four times fourteen to his fifty-five years and five months. Then Henry son Louis XIII. died May 14, 1643, the 14th day and month of his father's reign. And 1473 added together equals four times 14, is 1573 (the year of the birth of Henri IV.) equals fourteen. Louis XIV. ascended the throne 1653, which added together equals fourteen and similarly the year of his death (1715) equals.

The Doctor at Sea.

A veteran naval surgeon, speaking of the old times that crop out in the service, said that one of the younger medical cranks in the navy discovered much virtue in sea water, and no matter what disease came on his first action was to throw down the patient's throat a large dose of the nauseating liquid. The crew soon learned to hate him thoroughly. In process of time he fell overboard in a choppy sea, and a great bustle ensued. In the midst of it the captain came up and inquired the cause. "Oh, nothing, sir," replied a man, "only the doctor has fallen into his medicine chest."

A Dainty Combination.

"You can't tell," said uncle to us; "you can't tell. I tell you that's a aesthetic artist--know what he does? He smokes chewing tobacco in a pipe that's made of rubber. Honest, he does. And he claims his health is delicate!"--Cleveland Leader.

Leonardo's "Last Supper."

At the request of many artists A. L. Wolynski, the Russian art critic, has been made an honorary citizen of Milan in recognition of his work on Leonardo da Vinci. The letter in which the "unusual honor" is mentioned in Figaro speaks also of the process by which Professor Luigi Corrao hopes to arrest the disintegration of Leonardo's "Last Supper." "The whole surface of the great fresco in Santa Maria della Gratta," says the writer, "is a series of flakes which represent the painting, and every flake that falls is so much of the masterpiece. Corrao is using a transparent glue with which he hopes to fasten all the loose pieces to their original places, and when that laborious task is completed the cleaning of the picture may take place. Even when restored the fresco will be only a reminiscence of the artist and will not show whether he painted the central figure with or without a beard."

Richest Family in Europe.

It is not generally known that the imperial family of Russia is the richest royal family in Europe and derives its vast wealth from three sources--the state treasury, the imperial domains (formerly church lands) and the so called "cabinet properties." A writer in Harper's Weekly gives some interesting facts. The state treasury pays out $7,000,000 per annum for the needs of the imperial house, principally for the maintenance of the palaces and the officials and servants attached to them. The reigning empress, for example, has an allowance of $100,000 per year and the dowager empress the same. Every child born to the czar receives from birth to the age of twenty-one nearly $25,000 a year, while the heir to the throne receives annually, in addition to the maintenance of palaces, $50,000. Daughters receive a dowry of 1,000,000 rubles when they marry.

How Sandy Fooled Sandy.

An old fellow in a village not far from the city, boasted every morning on the porch and in order to save fuel cooked up whose week's supply every Saturday. One Friday morning the stuff seemed very good and very salt, and he felt he had abandoned the struggle to beat it. But his stubborn nature forbade such thought. So he fetched a glass from the cupboard, poured out a glass and placed it before him on the table.

"Now, Sandy," said he, "if ye eat that purrified yow! Loe that whisky, an if ye don't ye won't."

He stuck again at the last spoonful, kept his eye steadily on the glass of whisky, he made a bold, brave effort and got it down. Then he slowly and carefully poured back the whisky into the bottle with a broad grin, as he said to himself "Sandy, my lad, I did ye that time ye said fule!"--Dundee Advertiser.

One Hair Astray.

A guest at a certain fashionable hotel recently had a grouch. He carried it to the proprietor.

"Look here," he said, "things around here are just about as rotten as they make them. When I went to lunch to day I found hair in the ice cream hair in the honey and hair in the apple sauce. Now, what do ye think of that? Is that a good hotel?"

"Well," replied the genial proprietor "I can explain the hair in the ice cream. That likely came from the shaving of the ice, and I suppose that the hair in the honey came off the comb. But I don't understand about the hair in the apple sauce. I bought those apples myself, and they were every one Bald-wins."--Columbus Dispatch.

The Year and the Calendar.

After Julius Caesar corrected the calendar the year was still 11 minutes 14 seconds too long, amounting to one day in 125 years. As the centuries passed the interval between the commencement of the year and the spring equinox grew less. It was not, however until 1582 that anything was done about it. Then Pope Gregory XIII. set out to remedy the difficulty. This he did by directing the suppression of ten days outright. In order to provide for the future he ordered that all century years (1700, 1800, etc.) which would ordinarily be leap years should be common years unless they were multiples of 400. This arrangement, which still holds good, leaves only one day too much in 3,400 years. A French scientist has proposed dropping an additional day in the year 3,200 and repeating the process every 3,200 years. This would leave us short one day every 30,000 years, which may be considered correct enough for all practical purposes. At any rate, the matter is not pressing.--New York Post.

Perils of an Eight.

Only in Greece is it so far as I know does the number eight have a special significance. It is the number of the day of the deliver of the latter to avoid at all costs the number, even if he has to do so at considerable inconvenience and often danger. In other countries, on the contrary, it is the duty of a man to give way to the wheel of the Atlanta Constitution.

Poor Old Sol.

An astronomer says that an enormous dark planet is rushing toward the sun and that the impact, which is to take place in a few thousand years, will be frightful. Great Caesar! If that's the case, Old Sol stands a good chance of having the spots knocked out of him.--Morristown Times.

HE WAS QUALIFIED.

The Clergyman's Visitor Finally Got What He Was After.

"In that crisis," said a theatrical manager, speaking of a stage blunder he had committed, "I made a mistake, as queer a mistake as one that was made by a friend of mine, a clergyman."

"The clergyman had advertised for a butler, and the next morning after breakfast a well dressed, clean shaven young man in black was ushered into his study."

"Name, please?" said the clergyman.

"Hillary Arbuthnot, sir."

"Age?"

"Twenty-eight."

"What work have you been accustomed to?"

"I am a lawyer, sir."

"The clergyman started. This was odd. However, as he knew many were called in the law, few chosen."

"But," he said, "do you understand the conduct of a household?"

"In a general way, yes," murmured the applicant.

"Can you carve?"

"Yes."

"Wash glass and silver?"

"I--er--think so." The young man seemed embarrassed. He frowned and blushed. Just then the clergyman's wife entered.

"Are you married?" was her first question.

"That," said the young man, "was what I called to see your husband about, madam. I desire to know if he can make it convenient to officiate at my wedding at noon next Thursday week?"

The Longer Title.

If there is a system of abbreviation of mercantile terms in Germany, perhaps all the shorthand clerks know it. There is a little story about social rivalry among a semi-official class in Berlin: A proud young man exclaimed in high spirits that he was enjoying the happiest moment of his life. "My Fritz has been appointed hauptkassenverwaltungsverwalter!" That means assistant cashier. "Now," she went on, "in my title of hauptkassenverwaltungsverwalterin I boast of five letters more than that snuck-up oberhofsteuerratsinspectorin twice inspector's wife can claim!"--New York Press.

Couldn't Lose the Chance.

"My husband always remembers my birthday and our wedding anniversary."

"I should think you would positively hate him," replied the other woman.--Chicago Record-Herald.

O. F. PIPER GETS SENTENCE OF TWO AND ONE-HALF YEARS TO PEN WITH $600 FINE

CALLED BEFORE JUDGE TAYLOR AT 1:30 O'CLOCK

Attorneys Make Pleas in Behalf of the Former Cashier of the Peoples Bank of California, Something Very Unusual.

At about 1:30 o'clock this afternoon, O. F. Piper, of California, the former cashier of the People's National Bank at that place appeared before Judge Taylor at Washington for sentence to the charges of conspiracy to defraud, and embezzlement of the funds of the bank, to which he pleaded guilty last year. He was given a sentence of two years on the charge of conspiracy and 6 months on the charge of embezzlement. This together with a fine of $600 and costs on him, makes the sentence rather stringent. Pleas for leniency were made by the attorneys for the defendant, O. C. Underwood and A. M. Templeton, of Washington, and John C. Banc of Pittsburgh, and even the District Attorney C. L. W. Acheson joined them in this. Doubtless had it not been for the strong pleas, Piper would have received a much worse sentence. Last year Piper appeared before the court and pleaded guilty to the charges against him, but sentence was delayed, partially for the reason that he would be needed to testify at the trial of W. L. Lenhart. His time to come before the court was set for this morning, after Lenhart had been sentenced.

All the above named attorneys expressed great sympathy for Piper, and the trend of their remarks, when they spoke in behalf of the defendant were that he had already suffered more than a man's allotment, and that he was thoroughly repentant. Piper received his sentence much as he expected it, and it did not seem to affect him much. He has become bowed somewhat over his troubles, and there was much sympathy among the people in the court room for his condition, and many were rather sorry to hear of his receiving the comparatively heavy sentence.

Piper will be taken to the Western penitentiary at once so that he may begin the serving of his sentence. He will have six months and a few hours more to serve than Lenhart, who was connected with the failure of the same bank.

Mr. Piper's wife was present during the trial of Lenhart and up until her husband received his sentence. She is said to have taken it very hard.

Likely That Charleroi Will Have Pa. W. Va. League Team

REWARD OF $100 HAS BEEN OFFERED

Mystery in Disappearance of Zollarsville Man Deepens.

One hundred dollars reward has been offered by Joseph Swihart and his friends for information leading to the recovery of the body of his son, William Swihart, a Zollarsville blacksmith, who disappeared last Tuesday night.

Pasquale Sogoban, a saloonkeeper, who is in the Washington county jail for selling liquor to Swihart on the night he disappeared, said John Simpson, a coal and iron policeman of Pittsburgh of the Pittsburgh and Buffalo company, was with Swihart and drank with him. Simpson appeared early next morning at the livery stable of Swihart and Gregg and turned over $2.00 to a brother of the missing man. He said he had met Swihart in an intoxicated condition late Tuesday night and after taking the money for safe keeping put the blacksmith into a negro's shanty to sleep on.

A negro said Swihart left the shanty before 6 o'clock Wednesday morning with a cap the negro gave him and without an overcoat. The negro said he later found Swihart's hat and overcoat outside the shanty and took them to the livery stable. The negro's cap was found the next day on the bank of Ten-Mile Creek. It is said Swihart had $49 on the night of his disappearance.

A message was received yesterday from Pittsburgh that a man had been found, that in some way fitted the description of the missing man. Today a brother of Swihart, James, went to Pittsburgh, and returned on the noon train to Zollarsville, the body not being that of his brother. The case grows deeper in mystery as the days pass. The theory that he was drowned in the creek has been given up, and it is now thought that he was murdered. This was not at first believed, but the latest developments, as stated above rather point to that conclusion. It is thought that the $100 reward that has been offered by the man's friends will be sufficient incentive to get the officers to do their best and it is hoped that some news will be learned in the next few days.

It is now thought possible that the man may have fallen through a shaft at an old mine not far from his home, and this clue will be investigated.

Common Pleas Begins Today

Today the February term of common pleas court opened. There are several important cases to come up this week. Today there are two from Charleroi scheduled, B. A. Zollner vs. J. H. Moffitt, and M. E. Reeves vs. Frank W. Jones.

PROSPECTS ARE BRIGHT

Although it has generally been considered that baseball was dead in Charleroi, and that this place would not be represented in any league this year, it is likely that the game will be resurrected, and that after all has been said will have a team in the Pennsylvania and West Virginia leagues. At present a petition is being circulated by a committee in the interest of the team, and if enough signers can be secured, the franchise will again be secured for this town. As is well known the only thing that influenced the directors of the local club to even as much as think of relinquishing the franchise was the fact of the large indebtedness. This the committee and the signers expect to clear up through the aid of a home week and some benefits. The sale of the automobile tickets will be revived. It is thought and other special features introduced that will aid in the paying off of the amount.

If the proposition is a go, the old players, or the most of them will be reserved, and a few additional ones secured. In this way it is planned to have one of the best teams in the league, and if Charleroi enters this year it will make them all hustle for the first position. Last year the local club finished third. The town will support a winning team, and if there is baseball here another year, to say the least it is not thought that it will be a losing proposition. Many have already signed the petition that is being circulated, among them being one of the best citizens of the town. The people are in favor of baseball, and are willing to make some sacrifice to secure a team.

If there can be secured enough signers, a meeting will be called of the enthusiasts, at which time directors will be elected, and a manager appointed and players secured. Further arrangements would then be made to place the team in the league.

LENHART TAKEN TO PENITENTIARY THIS MORNING

BROKE DOWN AND CRIED

William Lenhart, of Brownsville this morning began to serve his sentence of two years in the Western Penitentiary, imposed together with a fine of $500 on him, on Saturday afternoon, shortly after three o'clock, by Judge Taylor, following the finding of the verdict of "guilty" of the jury. It was thought for a time that an appeal would be taken to a higher court, but after a conference yesterday this was deemed inadvisable, for the reason that it would take a year or more for the case to be taken up, and by that time Lenhart will have served a large part of his sentence. The charge against him was conspiracy, in connection with the failure of the People's National bank at California.

The convicted man bade farewell to his wife yesterday afternoon, in the county jail, and the latter returned to her home in Brownsville. Both Lenhart and his wife broke down and the latter had to be assisted from the jail. Lenhart fully realizes his position and yesterday morning, when he was dressing, and from an injury to one of his arms some time ago, in which the use of it was nearly lost, found himself in great difficulty, whereupon he broke down, and cried like a child.

The case was given into the hands of the jury a few minutes before 9 o'clock after Judge Taylor had charged them.

The jury was unanimous for conviction and on the first ballot stood 12 for conviction. The defendant was not in the court room when the jury came in, but with his father came in from the Trust building accompanied by his attorneys a few minutes later.

The defendant had arisen before the court when the verdict was read and was perfectly composed. Immediately afterward, R. W. Irwin, attorney for the defendant asked that sentence be suspended until today in order that an appeal might be taken to a higher court. Judge Taylor refused. District Attorney Acheson at once asked for judgment. Judge Taylor then sentenced Lenhart to two years in the penitentiary and a fine of $500. He was then ordered into the custody of the sheriff, Deputy W. C. McBride taking him to the jail.

Lenhart shook hands with his father, the latter leaving the court room. It is said that the jury was not five minutes in arriving at their verdict. The result was of a surprise to many who followed the case from the beginning.

THIRD APPEARANCE OF MALE CHORUS

The Cornell Male Chorus, that well known musical organization of the valley will make its third appearance in Charleroi Tuesday night when a concert will be given at the Coyle theatre. The chorus appeared at the School hall last year under the auspices of the Ladies' Auxiliary of the Y. M. C. A. and it was voted by all who had the pleasure of hearing it that it was one of the finest musical organizations of Western Pennsylvania. All the singers are well trained. The soloist for the concert will be Mrs. Charles Farrow Kimball, of Pittsburgh, a noted soprano. She has never been heard in Charleroi and should prove quite a drawing card.

EFFECT ORGANIZATION OF VALLEY LEAGUE

The Monongahela Valley Baseball league effected its organization yesterday afternoon at a meeting in Belle Vernon. C. H. Truxall of Belle Vernon was elected president, and Harry Grabart of Monessen, secretary. J. C. Carroll of Fayette City, Frank Hall of Roscoe, and Grover Boyd of Donora, were chosen the board of control, and President Truxall, Mike O'Brien of Fayette City and Neil Doherty of Roscoe, were delegated to frame the schedule. That instrument will call for 42 games, the season opening May 13 and closing September 18. Brownsville was not represented at yesterday's meeting and was dropped. Monessen was elected in its stead. Donlevy and Homestead were voted franchises, making it an eight-club league.

OFFICERS ARE ELECTED AT THE PRESS MEETING

An interesting meeting of the Monongahela Valley press association was held on Saturday afternoon and evening at Belle Vernon, when the scribes were the guests of the "Truxalls" of the Belle Vernon Enterprise. This was the annual meeting and the election of officers was held. R. K. Wiley of the Elizabeth Herald was elected president, Hon. C. L. Shuck, of the Monessen News, 1st vice president; R. E. Koeler, of the Donora American, 2nd vice president; J. Mac Colvin, secretary; C. H. Truxall, treasurer.

There were sixteen present, and after the business session a royal good time was had. A nice supper was served at the Central Hotel.

One new member was admitted to the association, C. D. Steinman of the Fayette City Journal.

Criminal Suit Settled by the Agreement of Tax Payers

SUPERVISORS TO RESIGN

Both Fisher and Boyd Are Compelled to Quit Job and Pay Costs.

Washington, Pa., Feb. 22.—The criminal case of the Commonwealth against Jacob Fisher and Robert Boyd, the two supervisors of Carroll township, who were arrested and indicted for conspiracy and embezzlement of funds of the township, and which was set for this term of court, will not be tried.

The criminal case was a part of the proceedings on behalf of a large number of tax payers who appealed from the audit of Carroll township for the year 1927. The Court ordered a re-audit which was held during May and June of last year. At the re-audit, it developed that all of the vouchers and a large number of the time books and tax duplicates of the Township had disappeared and could not be produced. An item of $150 appeared on the original audit as having been paid out by Robert Scott, the third supervisor on road work. At the re-audit, Scott denied the receipt of this money and Jacob Fisher admitted that he had received it. Fisher and Boyd were arrested and indicted by the Grand Jury. The tax payers appealed from the re-audit and the same is still pending. The tax payers, through their attorneys, agreed that the criminal suit be settled, inasmuch as the entire controversy could be better investigated and cleared up through the civil suit still pending. Judge McIlvaine had ruled that Fisher was entitled to this $150. By the terms of the settlement, both Fisher and Boyd tender their resignation as supervisors and pay all costs and expenses, as well as returning the $150 to the township. As Fisher's term expires within the next two weeks, his resignation will not be acted upon. The Court will be asked to appoint a successor to Boyd.

The tax payers had retained attorneys McIlvaine and Williams of Washington and David M. McCloskey of Charleroi to assist the District Attorney, while the interests of Fisher and Boyd were looked after by McIlvaine, Vance and Gibson of Monongahela and Irwin and Wiley of Washington.

Cheaper Steel and Prosperity

The cutting of steel prices $4 a ton
by the Carnegie Steel company a step anticipated by the independent and now likely to become general—is one
of the most encouraging portents for
returning prosperity that have been noted since the end of 1907. The action is wise, it was urwise that it was so long delayed.

A year ago it was pointed out that
in no previous period of financial depression had powerful business organizations been in the position or in the
temper to delay the return of prosperity by defying economic law. The lesson has possibly been learned that
the attempt is foolish, but the tuition
bills the whole community has had to pay have been heavy.

The natural cure for a panic is
competitive cutting of prices, which stimulates purchases. "Bargains" appeal to business men as powerfully as they do to housewives. In some lines of production not too closely
organized, prices were cut at once,
and to that extent the situation was
relieved, but the Steel Trust, Beef Trust, Flint Glass Trust and many others stood like Canute at the edge
of these and bad tide recede, and the railroads had the incredible folly to apply to slack traffic the "cure" of higher prices instead of lower dividends, or where necessary, the scaling down of nominal capital.

Well, most of the haughty Canutes
have now stepped back or got their feet wet. Some of the railroads are cutting rates. The Steel Trust has not quite nullified the law of supply and demand. Not much is left of last year's defiance of economic law,
except the uneasy feeling of the
people that another potent reason has
been added for regarding the unregulated control in few hands of vast industries as a public menace.

George Washington.

Ten days ago we were celebrating
the 100 anniversary of the birth of Abraham Lincoln, today we celebrate the 17th anniversary of George Washington, the Father of this country.
Washington was the man for his place
the same as Lincoln was the man for
his place. Neither could have filled
the others shoes, with the success
that each attained in his individual
work. Washington was a warrior in
the truest sense of the word, he was a patriot, and a man widely read, yet possessing all the gentleness that is attributed to women. His nobility of
soul won for him, many of the honors
that were his during his lifetime, and
his strength in all emergencies was
the stability of the American colonists,
when they had gained their freedom
from oppressiveness of the mother country of England. Washington was a combination of a soldier, a statesman, a patriot and a man of letters.
His nobility of soul and his strength anywhere claim the attention. He
was six feet three inches in height
straight as an arrow. His figure
when compared with that of Lincoln
was a contrast yet there was some comparison between the two. Lincoln was tall, but he was ungainly, and
not handsome, while Washington
while tall, had a most graceful
carriage, and was of prepossessing
appearance.

Electric Sparks

Four of the Carmack jurors can
neither read nor write, which moves
the Washington Herald to observe that
considering the "unwritten law."

The Washington Post is getting
alarmed about the spread of the Prohibition wave, and exclaims with trepidation, "Even Niagara is going dry."

The political principles of too many men consist in the lively articipation of party favors and the desire to be placed on the government payroll.

Now that Japan has arranged to take a census, California stands ready
to make up any shortage.

Governor Hadley of Missouri, says
wood. That and its accompanying virtue have a distinct advantage over
a 90-mile horseback ride.

A good many California people who
don't know what "segregation" means
are demanding it because they think it is something anti-Japanese.

A little more Pacific coast war
talk, and Mr. Roosevelt may come to regret that he turned down that second
elective term business after all.

The government is advertising for
"Angora goats that can eat anything." Seems to be a scheme of Congress to get rid of Presidential measures.

The Congress that will convene
immediately after Taft's inauguration
is intended expressly for tariff business, but no doubt it will have other fish to fry.

Philander Knox used to work the
old Washington hand press on the Brownsville Clipper, therefore, being
a modest printer he is not too proud
to accept a reduction of salary to become secretary of state.

By the way, Brownsville has two
secretaries of state who have stepped
from the senate into the position. No
city in the country, let alone little towns like Brownsville, can claim such
a record.

The king of Spain, it seems, is the
matchmaker who is trying to arrange a marriage between the king of Portugal and one of the princesses of England. The king of Spain's recommendations regarding English princesses ought to go. He has had experience with one of them.

Even if Congress should be dis-
credited by Roosevelt, its members
may still make good their constituents
by sending them spring garden seeds.

If the citizenship of Washington
insists upon boosting up the price of seats it may be necessary to hold that inauguration in Baltimore.

No matter how hungry you may be
you daren't catch fish except as a true sportsman. The makers are open to everybody.

In some parts of the country
apples are selling for fifty cents
apiece. There are occasional famines
in everything but poetry.

A DRUG STORE DEAL

Involving an actress, the soda water
man and an accident.

Josephine Cohan, the actress, ordered a chocolate sunda, or some similar abomination, at a drug store uptown the other day. When she sat down to drink it, one of the long
feathers on her hat touched a cigar lighter. Naturally they blazed up. The clerk, being a thoughtful young man,
wrested the glass of ice cream soda away from Miss Cohan and poured it on her hat, completely extinguishing the flames. Miss Cohan, uttering unstudied exclamations as the congealed
sweetness trickled down the back of her fur young neck, rose and did a few rough steps. Then she started to go away. "One minute, miss," said
the clerk. "Haven't you forgotten
something?"

Miss Cohan said yes, she had forgotten a lot of things. She had forgotten the sense she was born with, for
one thing, going into a place where they first set fire to her and then emptied a half pottle of frozen garbage down her lingerie waist to supply a cooling effect.

Star at Coney, young man, was her decision. "I'm for you in the 'Fighting the Flames' cast any day."

But the clerk said he wanted a dime for the soda. Miss Cohan peevishly inquired what soda he was talking about. "I have had no soda here," said she. "You handed me one, and then I lost it." The clerk, with an acid palate established upon her fire to burn on her nose.

But the clerk said he wanted a dime
for that soda. He said it in such a neatly way that Miss Cohan got real mad.

"You hat cost $50," said she. "and you've ruined it. Give me $49.99
change and let me go." And that's the way the matter stands.

Miss Cohan walks bloated out of her way now to make a false start through
the drug store door and then as if suddenly recollecting things away with a scream of terror. The clerk goes behind the prescription counter and makes faces to a woman. New York Letter to Charleroi Mail.

A Small but Welcome Act.

"If people who travel on steam railroads were as thoughtful as the should be in the act of throwing their newspapers down on the floor of the car after finishing with them they would wait until they saw a gang of
section hands and then toss their papers to the workmen," said Mr. A.
R. Webb of St. Louis.

"These men, even of humble wage earners, are endowed with a desire to know what is going on in the world and it is an act of the greatest kindness to help them to this source of pleasure
and education. Some of our western states have taken up this cause and are printing short notices asking railway
passengers to give their newspapers to the men along the road."

Big Writers.

London. The fact has recently been publishing some facts about the stature
of well known English authors. In one of its articles it says: "Of past greats in literature in two senses of the term, we have Blake, who was six feet three inches in height, and Tennyson, who was six feet two inches high, but doesn't look it on account of his staid build. Then there is Cuthbert Hume, who is six feet three inches in height, while Keats's Richard is even a shade taller. Keats's Howard runs to six feet one and one-
half inches in height, while his brother,
R. S. Warren Bell, who at once ends
and tops our list, is close to six feet
five inches."

Off With the Old Love.

A prominent Chicago lawyer tells of
an amusing incident which he witnessed subsequent to a certain breach
of promise suit in which he had acted as the defendant's attorney. The two were standing talking when they were joined by a third man, a friend of the client and an acquaintance of the lawyer. The third man had been out of town for some little time.

"Hello, old man, what are you looking so blue about?" the newcomer demanded as they shook hands.

"Oh, I've had a little hard luck
I've got to pay Miss Blank $3,000 on account of a breach of promise judgment," was the disconsolate reply.

"Say, I'm glad to hear that, old fellow," the friend exclaimed ferrency, seizing the dejected one's hand and
shaking it vigorously.

"Glad to hear it? I've got to pay that money, I tell you! What do you mean?" the other demanded in astonishment.

"Just that, my boy. It will be just about enough for us to set up housekeeping on. Miss Blank and I are to be married next month, you know."

The White Evening Waistcoat.

Anything that breaks through the gloomy, funereal, waterlaid aspect of male evening dress is to be commended.
But practically, as a general rule,
the white evening waistcoat cannot be
effectively worn much after the age of twenty-one. Black, it is well known undoubtedly increases them. I see one whom I have hitherto considered to be slim appear in white evening waist-
coats and look absolutely corpulent.
—London Graphic.

ONE SAT STILL

Captain Cook's Walking Stick Was Thunder and Lightning.

When Captain Cook's ship, the Endeavor, lay in Mercury bay, New Zealand, in 1769, a brown boy of eight,
who afterward became a chief and
lived to a great age, went aboard of
her. His name was Taniwha.

It was easy enough for the brown
boys to pick out Kapene Kuku (Captain Cook) among the men on board.
Taniwha said; he was the leader of the "goblins," a very great man. He took the ship's grave and dignified. He held up a nail, a priceless treasure, and
when Taniwha laughed, gave it to him.
Then the boys knew that he was good
as well as great. They were shocked that a grownup Maori stole a piece of calico.

"They paddled away," Taniwha continued. "The goblin went down into
the hold of the ship, but soon came up with a walking stick in his hand and pointed it at the canoe. Thunder peal-ed and lightning flashed, but those in the canoe paddled on.

"Then they landed. Eight rose to meet him with his dogskin mat and the goblin's garment under his feet. His companions called him, but he did not answer.
One of them shook him, and the thief
fell back into the hold of the canoe,
and blood was seen on his clothing and
a hole in his back."

"Either" and "Neither."

There are two or three things about
these two words that one should remember. In the first place, they should never be used in connection with more than two things—such as: "It was either Tuesday or Wednesday," not "either Tuesday or Wednesday or Thursday," not "neither Tuesday, Wednesday nor Thursday." Then, either should not be used in the sense of each, as "they walked on, one on either side of the road." It should be one on "each" side of the road. The third caution is about the pronunciation. Some persons insist that there should be pronounced "ether" and "neither," with the "i" long. But this is more an affection than anything else. The best authorities agree that the right pronunciation is "ether" and "neither."—New York World.

"Pinched"

The home school and college examination is pe a lot. One specimen was contributed by one of the high schools where a girl in the department of history was required to write a life of Queen Elizabeth. Her paper when turned in was "Elizabeth was so dishonest that she stole her soldier's food." The teacher who conducted these examinations was puzzled to know just whence this particular information had been translated into the girl's mind. So he asked her up, she asked the question "What" was the ready answer "that's just what I saw in my story."

The book was sent for and the passage examined. It was found to read
"Elizabeth was so parsimonious that she pinched the soldier's food."— Rochester.

Different Opinions.

"I see a man intends to let a rattlesnake out and depend on prayer for a cure. I call that faith."
"I call it cruelty to animals unless
somebody's going to pray for the snake
after it's bitten such a fool as that!"
—Philadelphia Ledger.

Paved With Tombstones.

"Not the least noteworthy thing
about the beautiful building," writes Dr. Sundermann from Mayence to the Wochenblatt, "referring to the cathedral of that place, is the pavement of this made with stones on which there are Hebrew letters, which aroused our curiosity. Investigation showed that the stones at one time marked
graves in the Jewish cemetery and had been taken there when there was a scarcity of building material and used to pave the cathedral. They have remained there ever since, and some of
the inscriptions are still in a fair state
of preservation."

Weddings and Broken Teeth.

"After every big cast wedding the dentists of the quarter reap a harvest," said a dental surgeon. "It is the broken teeth that keep us busy. I do not mean that the guests take a row and knock out one another's teeth.
Oh, no; it's the wedding cake that does the mischief. With all the beauty and charm from coals and every kind of a plain tin tins. In the course of the festivities many a luckless guest is bound to crack a tooth on that indigestible part of the wedding feast. At various times the wedding cake victims have talked of getting up a petition imploring the bakers to omit all
gritty ingredients, but up to date the supplying of teeth goes merrily on."
